Review

"The time for blended learning is now and the place is ALL classrooms throughout the country. This book provides educators with essential information and practices that will prepare students for the 21st Century." (Kim Weber, 4th Grade Teacher)

"The authors make blended learning come alive with the use of practical examples and resources beneficial to all school leaders and teachers ready to elevate student learning." (Kelly Fitzgerald, Online Learning Integration Specialist)

"This book is an excellent tool for administrators and educators who would like to learn more about implementing or improving a successful blended learning program in their school or district. It provides step-by-step instructions as well as anecdotes from actual educators who have experienced the implementation process themselves." (Juliette Guarino Berg, Lower School Science Specialist)

"Blended Learning in Action will lead to deep discussion with teachers and school leaders on how to move forward with an action plan to link modern and fresh teaching practices in the classroom to technology, while also helping to create rewarding classroom environment." (Kristopher R. Kwiatek, Principal)

"Blended Learning in Action is an incredibly thoughtful read that builds a case for the urgent changes needed in schools today. Authors Tucker, Green, and Wycoff bring incredible expertise and passion to this book. It artfully describes the importance of blended learning playing a central role in this revolution coming to education as we know it. Blended Learning in Action is a great road map that balances research and practice for teachers, leaders, and learners."

(Robert Dillon, Director)

"This book is different. It is deeper and more serious about creating the change students deserve than most others. Blended Learning in Action is a deep dive into what, why, and how blended learning can be meaningfully implemented and scaled. The purposeful integration of multiple stakeholder perspectives throughout the book was masterful. The fact that each and every chapter of Blended Learning in Action started out with a student's perspective confirms that it is built on a vital pedagogical foundation."

(Dr. Brad Gustafson, Author of Renegade Leadership)

"Whether you are a district, school, or classroom education leader, Blended Learning in Action will take you through the pedagogy, tools, curriculum and lesson design strategies, and practical classroom models to start transforming learning for your students. The best part of this book is that it can provide educators with innovative ideas whether they are just considering going blended, ready to take the plunge, or have already gone blended and are looking for more inspiration. Don't miss the chance to move your classroom, school, or district forward by creating a culture shift and following through with the school-wide and classroom practices that have been tested by educators."

a great book about blended learning

By Amazon Customer

If I was an administrator or instructional coach, I would give this book a 5 star ratings. It covers a variety of important topics - from how to get more devices into the hands of students, to how a teacher can set up a blended learning classroom. As a teacher, I found the last 1/2 the most important and the first 1/2 of the book less significant. I'm not concerned about how to get devices for the entire school or motivating all teachers at a site. My main concern as a teacher, is how to get my classroom started. Other teachers can do what they want. Having said that, the second 1/2 of the book is vital and incredibly important. There were templates to help me write my first blended unit, suggestions for how I can motivate students, ideas for how I can support students who finish early. All in all, a great book about blended learning!

By Erin Rice

This book is a fantastic resource for leaders and teachers shifting to a blended learning model. I love the links to leadership and links to the classroom sections in each chapter. Too often the needs of one group are not understood by the other. These links make it clear what teachers need from their leaders and vice versa. Refreshing to see a book that takes each stakeholder into account when proposing a large scale shift! Great resource!

By Marilyn Wycoff

Catlin, Tiffany and Jason have written a book that could very well impact and revolutionize the future of education in the United States.

It is a book that all teachers and educational leaders need to take a very close look at. Their vision of blended learning in the classroom is unique and cutting edge.
