Costin put his knowledge on paper well.

By Alan. J. Reynolds

A now aged book (my copy is a 1968 edition) which concludes with the Lotus 18 and 19 space frame cars of 1960 as its most up to date examples of design philosophy. These days most Formula Student cars use more sophisticated chassis than these now ancient examples. Despite this, the book has considerable merit, certainly Mike Costin knew what he was talking about and put his knowledge down on paper rather well. A friend succeeded in building a reasonable Formula Ford 1600 in the early 1970's on the basis of knowledge gained from this simple volume; I know, I painted the bare chassis and blue-printed the car's first engine.
